Businessmen urge passage of airport/Dial-A-Ride issues

By Terry Wright
News Editor

"The air-industrial park ballot proposal is very important to the future growth of the Grayling area." That theme is being echoed by three local businessmen who have come out in support of the issue.

John Patchin, president of CSI, Industrial Systems Corporation, said a year-round airport, with adjacent facilities for small industry, allows owners to locate where they want to live without distancing customers they serve.

"A large percentage of our sales, or customers, are out-of-state," Patchin said. "We wanted to live in Grayling. Our planes (currently based in Roscommon and Gaylord) have brought our customers closer."

CSI, which engineers, fabricates and installs a variety of industrial systems including air and ventilation systems, has been located in Grayling for 11 years and currently employs 80 people, mostly in the Grayling area. Many CSI employees are highly skilled engineers and draftsmen. In 1994, CSI had $11 million in sales. One division of the company is currently moving into expanded quarters in the city industrial park.

"Our availability to our customers has allowed us to grow," Patchin said. "We can be in Appleton, Wisconsin in an hour. A commercial trip to Appleton and back, with all the flight changes, would take about 13 hours. Easy access to a runway saves time, which saves us a lot of money."

Patchin said there are many reasons the community should support the airport millage request, but the main reason is the creation of new jobs.

"Anytime you can bring business to town in a controlled environment it's good for the community. Those people build homes, buy insurance, get haircuts, buy cars and subscribe to newspapers," Patchin said.

If county voters agree with Patchin, they will approve a special one-half of one mill request on Tuesday, Jan. 24, to be used to develop an air-industrial complex and operate and maintain runways at the Grayling airport.

Ron Phillips, president and CEO of Chemical Bank North said ancillary services created to serve new industry that may be attracted to the air-industrial park are as important as new industry itself to the local economy.

"Businesses serving the needs of industry could bring even more jobs to the area. We need to develop that airport to make it work for us."

The air-industrial park proposal was developed by the Crawford County Industrial Development Fund Committee made up of four bank presidents, the county treasurer, the city manager, the president and executive director of the chamber of commerce and three at-large representatives of the business community.

Ralph Stevens is an at-large member of the committee and is currently serving as the committee chairman. Stevens is the owner of Carlisle Paddles Inc., a manufacturer of canoe, kayak and boat paddles and a distributor of Old Town canoes.

"We should have that airport property back," Stevens said. "There is a lot of acreage not used by the airport that is prime industrial property."

Stevens said there is the potential for 400 light industry jobs at an air-industrial park. He said there are a couple of "prime prospect" companies wanting to relocate in Grayling.

"With a minimum of work at the airport, just hooking up some utilities, we can have an industrial park handed to us. We have given this a lot of thought with precise planning," Stevens said.

Stevens urged everyone to vote for the proposal because it's good for the county.

"As we increase the county's tax base," Stevens said, "individual taxes decrease. That's the law, it's part of the Headlee Amendment. The airport will help determine the future growth of the county."

Another part of the Jan. 24 ballot issue is a request to increase Dial-A-Ride funding by one-half of one mill, to ensure 7-day-per-week, on-demand operation of Dial-A-Ride bus service to the county.

Stevens said, "Dial-A-Ride is practical, it's important, there is a genuine need and it shows we are a progressive community. It's a good buy."

"We've got to have Dial-A-Ride and we've got to have weekend service," said Phillips. "It's dependable, cheap and clean. It gives people independence. We owe that to our citizens."

County commission to meet during evening hours

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 24, at 7:30 p.m., in the Crawford County Courthouse.

The board has requested county prosecuting attorney John Huss to attend to answer questions concerning its request for a Michigan attorney general's ruling on alleged conflicts of interest on the part of some members of the commission.

Also on the agenda will be nominations for a 1995 vice-chairman of the board.

Reign to end Saturday for 1994 Grayling Junior Miss, Sarah Woodland

Profile of Dennis Long, chairman of the county board of commissioners

By Victor Edwards

"In order for a commissioner to do his job properly, he must accurately reflect the wishes of the people in the district that elects him, and in doing that job effectively, he must learn to compromise in order to achieve the main crux of those wishes. He must bend a little," is how Dennis Long, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners describes his job as he begins his third term.

His first term (1990-1992) was not what he expected. "The amount of bureaucratic red tape was a surprise, but still a lot of good was accomplished."

Elected chairman by his fellow commissioners at the beginning of his second term (Jan. 1993-Dec. 1994), Long presided over the commission during a fire storm of local controversy concerning the county landfill and jail project.

"We don't want to be the trash capitol of northern Michigan," Long said.

But, tempering that view with a pragmatic approach to the problem, he pointed out that the trash business is a competitive business, as evidenced by all the different company logos on the dumpsters in Grayling.

Long said in the late 1980s, the landfill was barely doing enough business to meet expenses. During the same period, the State of Michigan said the site was contaminated. As a result, a consent agreement was entered into between the county and the state.

Emphasizing that remediation is a multi-step process, Long said privatization of the landfill allows the payroll to be met, clean up to occur and allows for state-of-the-art procedures to be used in preventing future contamination.

"The final stage of remediation should begin next summer with the arrival of equipment," Long said. "This was all done with no millage increase."

The jail issue has also been ongoing. With the county spending $70,000 to $80,000 per year on housing prisoners out-of-county, a desire to look at all alternatives was financially indicated. Long said, "Added to this was the fact that drunk drivers don't go to jail, because there is no bed space in Crawford County," he said.

Long said the new jail will not be a regional jail. The decision on the number of beds was based, after careful study, on the projected needs of Crawford County only. Since the jail is being built for future needs, there should be, if it was planned properly, a period of time between the completion of the jail and the county requiring all the space due to population growth. During this period, extra space should be temporarily

Meeting set on waste proposal

Citizens have their chance to express concerns about waste amendment

By Linda Denton
Staff Writer

Trash, garbage, rubbish, waste, or junk, no matter what you call it, the citizens of Crawford County generate approximately 50 tons of it a day or 55,000 cubic yards per year.

Those figures are cited in a letter from Ken Paquet, Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) representative, in which he expresses some concerns that BFI has about the proposed amendment to the Crawford County Solid Waste Plan. BFI is one of the largest trash haulers in the United States.

On Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m., the Crawford County Solid Waste Planning Committee will be collecting public comments on the proposed amendment. The meeting will be at the Joseph Stripe Auditorium at Grayling High School.

"This proposal was a cooperative effort by several people in the community and various townships," said Mike Nelson, legal counsel for City Environmental Services of Waters (CESW). "We're very optimistic, due to a large part of this proposal being a cooperative effort."

In a letter, Paquet said, "We find it most unusual that they (citizens of Crawford County) do not want to allow any of their waste to be exported from the county. Should the plan be done as proposed, the citizens of Crawford and Otsego counties will have absolutely no choice but to deal with City Management. They will have to accept the disposal rates that City Management dictates, because they will not have the right to choose another landfill."

The amendment does allow for Crawford County to export waste to Montmorency/Oscoda, Wexford, Chippewa and Charlevoix counties. Not included in the amendment are Presque Isle, Leelanau and Washenaw counties, which already have provisions accepting waste from Crawford County in their solid waste plans.

The amendment allows 21 other counties to dispose of waste at CESW. The amendment allows counties outside of Crawford and Otsego counties to dispose up to 951,008 cubic yards per calendar year at the CESW facility.

"One of the most important things that the group of people (who helped draft the amendment) wanted was that not all of the waste go to CESW, but to have several options available," said Nelson. "The amendment offers four other options."

CESW will provide an annual calendar-year report to Crawford County that specifies the monthly and annual total cubic yards of waste accepted at the landfill during the calendar year and the counties of origin from which waste has been received at the landfill.

If the amendment is passed, CESW agrees to extend some considerations to Crawford County, including guaranteeing sufficient disposal capacity to Crawford County for 20 years. CESW also agrees to subsidize a recycling program in Crawford County for one year at a cost of $12,740 to Crawford County.

CESW also agrees to implement a household hazardous waste and waste reduction education program in each of the counties disposing of waste at the landfill under terms acceptable to CESW.

variance. "To accomplish a smart money move this space can be provided, if and when available, to neighboring counties for housing of non-Crawford County prisoners," he said. "Since the same number of corrections officers are required, whether the jail is nearly empty or full, the extra money earned would help offset the county's expense of operating the jail. This is a sound financial decision," Long said.

A constant theme of Commissioner Long's is sound financial planning. As required by Michigan State Law, he said the county budget has been balanced in four years of his tenure on the board.

Born in Saginaw, Long grew up and graduated from high school there in 1966. Remaining in Saginaw for the next 14 years, he worked for Saginaw Mercy Ambulance, the Saginaw City Police Department, and the Saginaw County Sheriff Department.

Long was hired by the Crawford County Sheriff Department in 1982, and moved to Grayling with his family. In 1983, he began his current job as a patrolman for the Grayling City Police Department.

One of the factors in his relocation to Grayling was his wife, Judy, he said. "She is from Houghton Lake and is my closest adviser."

The Longs have three daughters. The oldest, 23, works at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw. His other two daughters attend Grayling Elementary School.

Long is an avid hiker, and enjoys family outings, boating on Lake

Margrethe, cross-country skiing and golf. He is also active in the Knights of Columbus organization. He served six years in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve and serves on the Boy Scout Advisory Board for the local troop.

He said his law enforcement career has been a major factor in shaping his life. He was decorated twice by the City of Saginaw Police Department for meritorious service and wears the green and white medal recognized in the State of Michigan for his uniform. One of the two awards was for his actions during an encounter with an armed suspect, who had already fatally wounded another person. On May 3, 1975, he was stabbed when he disarmed two suspects, both of whom had knives. Long earned a total of 12 departmental citations while a law enforcement officer in Saginaw.

In Grayling, his latest award is from the Michigan Department of Mental Affairs. Ato 14 armed him the prestigious and rare Legion of Merit. The citation, dated May 22, 1994, reads in part: "For exceptionally meritorious service in support of the Michigan National Guard."

Long already has an associate's degree from Kirtland Community College and is currently pursuing a bachelor's degree.

Elected to his third term to the board of commissioners in November, Long said, "I hope to be as effective or slightly better, due to experience. One of the things that makes you proud about Crawford County is the ability of the community to recognize and appreciate results."

DENNIS AND JUDITH LONG--Dennis is beginning his second term as the chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners. He is also a Grayling city policeman. The Longs have three daughters, two of whom attend school at the Grayling Elementary School.

Lowe to chair house Senior Citizen and Veterans Affairs committees

Rep. Allen Lowe, R-Grayling, will chair the House Senior Citizens and Veterans Affairs Committee for the 1995-96 legislative session.

"After his first term in office, Allen has become an effective spokesman for veterans throughout the state," said Speaker Paul Hillebrand, R-Holton. "He earned their respect by working tirelessly to enact legislation creating the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund. Such landmark action ended decades of raiding the fund during tight economic times."

Lowe said his top priority this term will be passing a joint resolution to protect the fund from future attacks.

"I am optimistic that the provision can be approved by the House and Senate and put before voters on the November 1996 ballot," he said.

Lowe served as co-chair of the Military and Veterans Affairs Committee last term under the shared:

responsibility of the House Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP). Lowe said he is excited about his assignments as committee chair. In the coming months, Lowe and his colleagues will examine several recommendations issued last year by the House Republican Task Force on Senior Policy. They include:

• Enabling the needy elderly population to receive long-term care in the community as an alternative to nursing home placement.

• Expanding the supply of shared and alternative housing for disabled adults and senior citizens with dependencies.

• Encouraging institutions of higher education to examine the special needs of the frail elderly as schools train future health care providers.

"More people are living longer and suffering more chronic conditions. Researchers predict 12 million frail elderly nationwide in less than 40 years. Now is the time to develop a strategy so our system can serve this growing segment of our population," Lowe concluded.

Waste amendment

Solid Waste Committee member, Steve Mason, of Trout Unlimited of Grayling said, "I have a real concern about the lack of provisions to reduce or eliminate household hazardous wastes from the waste stream. There is no provision for the disposal of household hazardous waste in this county or any other county."

Nelson agreed that efforts should be made to remove household hazardous waste from the waste stream.

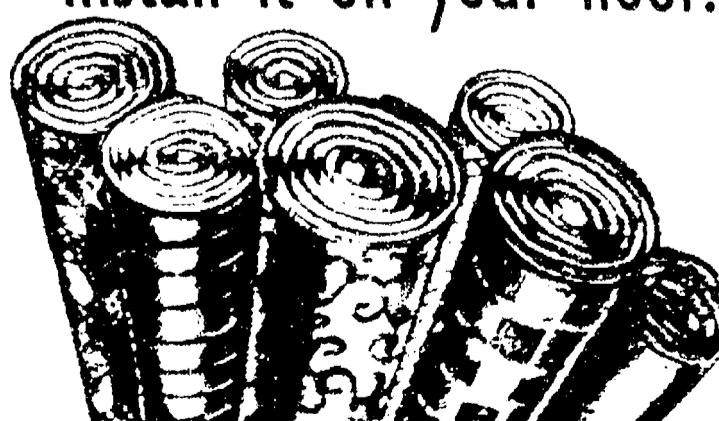

"The most effective means of doing this is through education," said Nelson.

If the amendment is passed, CESW agrees to not pursue any claim for damages it believes it has incurred prior to the date of the inclusion of the amendment in the plan. Damages resulting from any failure to include within the solid waste management plan the authorization for those counties to receive and dispose of the solid waste from other counties would not be pursued.

CESW shall not request the county to add additional counties pursuant to any contractual obligation resulting from the purchase agreement, so long as the amendment remains unchanged and part of the plan.

Sibs For Kids seeks volunteers

The Crawford/Roscommon County "Sibs For Kids Program," is looking for mature adult volunteers to act as big brothers/sisters to boys and girls who are part of a single-parent home. The volunteers act as appropriate role models.

The Sibs For Kids Program stresses "quality time" and not money and expensive gifts. We encourage regular telephone contact and at least two outings per month. Most of the suggested outings are inexpensive and the program does have discounts worked out with a number of area businesses.

Because most often when a divorce occurs, the mother is awarded the custody of the children and the father is often absent from daily living at the home, many times young boys are left without an appropriate adult role model. Unfortunately, adult male volunteers are not as easy to find as one might think, and the Sibs For Kids Program often has a waiting list for boys.

While the program's volunteers often assist with filling some of the gaps caused by the absence of a parent in a home, volunteers are discouraged from trying to fill the role of the absent parent. Rather, volunteers are encouraged to act as older appropriate friends. The mission of a volunteer is to provide their little brother or sister with friendship, guidance, and hope.

If you, or someone you know has an interest in working with youths and may be willing to donate some quality time to a child who needs an older friend, contact the Crawford/Roscommon Sibs For Kids Program by calling 517-348-2841, ext. 262, or drop us a note at P.O. Box 311, Grayling, MI 49738.

Consumers Power warns of carbon monoxide dangers

In light of the recent increase in Michigan of incidents involving possible carbon monoxide poisoning, Consumers Power Company is recommending that homeowners take the following precautions:

• Have your furnace inspected annually by a qualified, licensed heating contractor.

• Make sure that you have adequate fresh air coming into your house so that your gas appliances will operate properly. Some newer houses require a fresh-air intake.

• Purchase and install an electronic UL-approved carbon monoxide (CO) detector. Not all CO detectors are created equal. Beware of battery-operated models that are overly sensitive and prone to low alarms.

• If signs of carbon monoxide are present, you or your family members should seek medical attention.

ISSUES AND OPINIONS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Banking institutions support ballot issues

A county-wide special election will be held in Crawford County on Tuesday, Jan. 24. The purpose of the election is to enable voters to decide two issues. The first pertains to retaining seven day per week Dial-A-Ride service, and the second relates to the development of a financial base to support airport improvement projects.

Over the last decade, deficit reduction efforts at both the state and federal level have resulted in an increasing share of Dial-A-Ride program costs being borne at the local level. In 1983, less than 48 percent of operational expenditures were supported by those sources.

For several years, the Dial-A-Ride program used cost containment to offset the declining levels of state and federal operational support. The point has now been reached wherein cost containment is no longer in and of itself sufficient. As a result, the electorate is being given the choice of either: (1) increasing, for a period of five years, the existing Dial-A-Ride millage from three-quarters of one mill to one and one-quarter mills; or (2) accepting the discontinuance of weekend on demand service.

The quality of life issue, intrinsic to the airport ballot proposal does not pertain so much to the here and now as it does to the future. The base question respective to the airport issue is, "Will the community decide today, to do that which will enhance industrial growth and economic development tomorrow?" Investing in the future is one of the few means by which a small community can help determine its own economic future. It is typically the only means by which a small, rural community can achieve its true potential.

As representatives of the four, full-service banking institutions in the community, we collectively support both the airport and Dial-A-Ride issues and recommend that area voters give consideration to doing the same. Make your opinion count by voting Tuesday, Jan. 24.

park project is successfully completed, it would not be unrealistic to anticipate the eventual creation of approximately four hundred new, light manufacturing hourly employment opportunities at the site. The creation of these new jobs, in conjunction with the increasing of the county's real property tax base, would substantially strengthen the regional economy.

In the final analysis, both of the ballot issues to be decided by the Jan. 24, special election pertain to quality of life issues. The quality of life issue addressed in the Dial-A-Ride ballot question pertains to the here and now. It especially pertains to the comprehensiveness of personal transportation services made available to senior citizens and handicapped individuals within our county.

The quality of life issue, intrinsic to the airport ballot proposal does not pertain so much to the here and now as it does to the future. The base question respective to the airport issue is, "Will the community decide today, to do that which will enhance industrial growth and economic development tomorrow?" Investing in the future is one of the few means by which a small community can help determine its own economic future. It is typically the only means by which a small, rural community can achieve its true potential.

Court records are public

To the editor:

I would like to respond to some of inmate Sheppard's questions and opinions that were published in your informational and entertaining publication. It seems that "inmate" Sheppard does not like the Crawford County Jail. Good! There might be hope for him after all. When you pled guilty to the charge, you did give up most of your rights. If you would do your homework, (if you can find the time), you would learn that your right to privacy ended when you said, "Guilty." You see, court records are public!

The constitutional amendment that you used to have your speech/sob story heard, is the same one that the Crawford County Avalanche used to inform its readers of your "stupid" act.

Please take this moment to ask the officer charged with your care, to get you a cloth. Please use the cloth to dry your eyes.

Now, rehabilitation is up to you. Not to Crawford County and its small towns, you! If you want to change your life, then do so. Don't blame others for your faults. There are employers that will hire you if you show them that you can be relied upon, and are sincere when you provide them with your legitimate skills.

It's my opinion that you should not forget your "mistake." Learn from it!

Now, take the cloth that the officer gave you, that I'm sure is well moistened, and clean the cell that you say is "dust choked."

Voters should have passed school bond issue

To the editor:

I am writing in response to the article in the last edition of the Avalanche about the upcoming proposal for the transit authority. If that proposal passes, it will be a slap in the face for the citizens of Crawford County who tried to get the school millage passed. Please do not misunderstand me, I am not against the mini-buses at all, but aren't our children just as important?

These children are possibly future residents of this community. Don't they deserve our support now? Shame on the people who voted no on the school bond issue, as well as the people who did not vote at all! Sometimes that is just as bad, especially since we only lost by a little over 100 votes!

I understand about the seniors living on fixed incomes and all, but heck, I am a single parent and I also live on a fixed income! But I feel that I can manage to save another $30-$50 per year so that our kids don't have to be squished like sardines into schools that are already overflowing. Just a suggestion — the next time we go to the polls, have them set up at the elementary school. That may just enlighten some people.

Connie a disgrace... or a martyr?

EVERYBODY IT seems, has an opinion. Most seem to come down on the side that Ms. Chung and CBS sucker-punched a sweet naive mother.

"I think she tricked an old lady," said Joseph C. Goulden, who works for a group called Accuracy in Media in Washington, "and it makes me ashamed to be a journalist." Of course, he's not, but used to be (with the Philadelphia Inquirer).

Gene Goodwin, journalism educator at Penn State University, said: "I don't know if it's the journalistic sin of the century, but when you see somebody like Connie Chung doing dumb stuff like that, it makes it harder for the whole profession. She was inviting confidentiality, and violating the heck out of it."

Both Mr. Goulden and Prof. Goodwin were quoted in The Detroit News.

The Speaker harrumphed that Ms. Chung owed an apology "to my mother, the president and the country." Of course, maybe Mr. Gingrich should apologize to Ms. Clinton, but he didn't mention that.

ONE PROBLEM is analyzing this brouhaha is that Ms. Chung probably is a newscaster part of the time, and an entertainer the rest. She enjoyed a sound career as a television reporter, then was promoted to anchor person, a job which falls between news and entertainment.

The Gingrich flap came on yet another Chung platform as host of an evening tabloid show. These are not news shows, but entertainment based on gossip, innuendo, sensationalism, and the bizarre, with precious little to do with journalism and everything to do with entertainment and titillation.

As a news person, Ms. Chung had a right to ask the question she did, but did not have the right to air the answer.

As an entertainer, she had the right to do both.

Ms. Gingrich should not have answered the question in the first place, but stayed with her first refusal.

The wise politicians know that everything they say or do might end up as public knowledge, and they conduct themselves accordingly.

For any public figure, a good rule to follow is this: If you are afraid it will get in the paper (or on TV), then don't do it, or don't say it.

IT WILL BE tough for Connie Chung to be taken seriously again at the job she did best before she was promoted out of it — that is, as a news reporter.

She's no longer a reporter, but a celebrity.

In this whole process, she has helped make Kathleen Gingrich one, too.

Coming out best were the Clintons, who showed real class in handling what could have been an explosive situation.

President Clinton laughed it off. In a joint press conference with Mr. Gingrich, called for another purpose, he took the "mothers will be mothers" approach.

"God knows what she could have gotten my mother to say," laughed the President.

And Mrs. Clinton invited the Speaker and his parents to spend a weekend at the White House with the Clintons.

That is just the right way to handle it, and the Clintons both deserve credit. Obviously, they have learned a bit about public relations.

FROM OUR CORNER

By Whitey Madsen

Twenty years must have gone by when I wasn't looking...

I should have realized that during the 1990s it would be the anniversary date for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and state, to again push for the removal of the AuSable dam in the city.

The third attempt since I have been here appeared in an article by Eric Sharp, outdoors writer for the Detroit Free Press, on Friday, Jan. 6th.

The first one was in the 1950s and I was working for Robert Strong, then owner of the Avalanche.

Second one was during the 1970s and at the time I was publisher and editor of the paper.

Both these times the reason for the removal was brought about by the DNR biologists and trout fishermen.

They argued that the warm waters flowing over the dam from the back waters was destroying the trout habitat, and could cause a demise of the trout in the upper waters of the AuSable.

During that time in the 50s and 70s, the local chamber of commerce, city fathers and business owners, challenged the DNR and the dam was left alone.

This time around, besides the trout and its habitat, is the question of who owns the dam, the state or City of Grayling.

The state is ceding ownership of the dam, and attendant maintenance cost to the city, but Grayling is declining the honor.

This possibly is the way the DNR and state will take over the dam and will be able to remove it as they wish, and opposition will fall on deaf ears.

I remember in the 70s, I wrote a column to keep the dam. Within a week, a fish biologist stationed in Midway was at the office with his portfolio, to show me why the dam had to go.

As I look back, after this meeting I was thinking that in a period of time, there would be no more trout fishing in the AuSable, if the gentleman was right.

Twenty years have passed. Although I never fished, people have told me there is still trout fishing going on, even with the dam still there.

Also, I can hardly imagine what it would be like from M-72 bridge to the

A few closers from Joe Falls' Forum in the Detroit News.

Leslie Falls Salgado, our Daring Daughter, says: "My husband lied on our tax form. He listed himself as head of the household."

Why newspaper people do what they do

When newspaper people write about the burdens of their job, they usually sound a bit pompous or, on the other hand, like crybabies. The public, they claim, neither understands nor appreciates their virtuous efforts.

Although they'll deny it, newspaper people want to be loved. They have feelings. They are hurt by criticism they feel is undeserved.

The better journalists take this criticism in stride; the lesser ones let it alter their perceptions.

Being human, newspaper people are not perfect. They make mistakes. And once their mistakes reach print, they're there for all to see. The job is without secrets, just pressure.

Mistakes warrant criticism. Every newspaper recognizes that and does its best to eliminate the problem. However, there are times when criticism is off target. This usually stems from a misunderstanding of a newspaper's role in the community.

With this in mind, let's review a few of these misunderstandings:

1. Newspapers are not newsletters. A newspaper prints what it considers to be news — good or bad. A newsletter prints the good news in a format guaranteed to offend no one. Don't look for bad news in a newsletter, or for 1-sided optimism in a newspaper.

2. Newspapers do not control the community. Instead, they are a reflection of what's happening in the community. No one ever voted for or against an editor.

3. A newspaper is a business and must generate a profit to keep its doors open. These profits are based almost entirely on the sale of advertising.

Incidentally, subscription rates barely cover mailing costs.

A profitable newspaper serves its community best. A newspaper that casts aside good management is usually in so much hot water that it cannot serve the community well.

4. It takes a lot of time, money and effort to put newspaper together. They don't fall from the sky. They aren't assembled by robots.

The layout process isn't practical without deadlines. Late items cause haste and haste makes waste. Items that are imperative to a given week's publication should be developed ahead of time — not thrown together on the afternoon of publication day.

5. A newspaper's size depends upon its advertising. The proper ratio of pages to advertising assures the newspaper that costs won't exceed income.

A newspaper cannot afford to add another page to accommodate a late item. In any case, the printing process allows no less than two pages being added or subtracted.

When an editor resists making room for a late item, it is not because he is uncaring. It's probably because the page is already filled with a dozen other items that were turned in on time.

6. Deciding what is news is not easy. Something of interest to one group is usually meaningless to another. Striking a balance is almost sure to offend one group or the other.

Putting this decision through some sort of democratic process doesn't work. A monarchy is far more effective and, in this case, the news editor is king. He decides what gets in and where it goes.

This process is not set in stone, but it deserves protection. A newspaper cannot afford to let its content — perhaps direction is a better word — be controlled by outside interest groups. It must be independent.

7. Editorials are opinions on behalf of the newspaper. They are not facts. They represent only one side of the coin.

Editorials are not sacred. They are meant to cause the reader to think; agreement is secondary.

Disagreement, which is healthy, should be expressed through well-thought letters to the editor — not angry phone calls to the editor.

The best way to test a newspaper's integrity is to see whether it will print such letters, assuming, of course, they are signed.

8. Public meetings are open to the public. Oftentimes, the public's lone representative is a reporter from the newspaper, but this does not diminish the meeting's credibility — it's still a public meeting.

Participants at these meetings are responsible for controlling their behavior. It is not the newspaper's responsibility to ensure that everyone comes out "looking good."

The public deserves to know what's happening with its governmental and its tax dollars. Consequently, a newspaper cannot be censored without censoring the public.

Those who say, "Oh, don't put that in the paper. Nobody needs to know, it'll only stir things up," have missed the point. Controversies stem from secrecy, not disclosure.

10. The actions of one newspaper do not define the actions of another.

These are just a few of the misunderstandings that crop up around a newspaper office. There are dozens more.

It's costly to teach IRS deserved lesson

There are a few things you should know....

A DOWNTOWN Detroit attorney was fined $300 recently by the IRS because, the IRS letter said: "According to our records, you paid your taxes to an unauthorized financial institution, directly to the IRS."

You read that right.

The attorney said it has happened more than once. IRS instructions are to pay his employees' withholding taxes quarterly to a local bank, which, for a fee, subsequently forwards the money to the IRS in Cincinnati. He admits that due to laziness or carelessness — maybe stubbornness — he sometimes sends the withholding check straight to Cincinnati, along with other tax payments. And he regularly is fined 10 percent of the withholding amount.

"It has got to cost the government us taxpayers — more to pay a bank for collection services than for the IRS to accept direct payments," the attorney complained.

Absolutely.

But is it worth a $300 fine to force the IRS to call itself unauthorized to accept tax payments to the IRS?

It is if you can afford it, I guess.

MY FAVORITE Christmas card came from Dr. Ken Taylor of Traverse City. An attached note said, "Your grandkids may get more ink, but mine get prettier." The card features a photo of a very small child, nude except for a well-positioned hat, walking on the beach, soaking in the sun.

TWICE on a recent night my wife and I saw a cliché we'd seen previously maybe only a million times in our long career of watching filmed entertainment in theaters and on television. It's the one where the camera slowly follows a path of strewn clothing — frilly blouse, bra, panties, boxer shorts, man's shirt and tie, etc.

— leading from just inside the front door, through the living room, dining area, kitchen and into a bedroom.

In theaters and on television, this means a romantic relationship has reached a hurried, frenzied climax.

"In most homes it means the couple arrived home carrying suitcases held closed by ropes that broke," my wife said, obviously trying to control her frenzy.

WHILE ON this intellectual subject, it will be recalled that I sometimes brag that I'm so smart I notice the really important things on television that the average viewer fails to comprehend. One more example:

On the Dec. 14, episode of the ABC sitcom Ellen, Ellen's best friend, portrayed by Joely Fisher, described the many troubles she was having with her mother. This is nothing new, incidentally.

Dozens of sitcom characters, ages thirty-something, regularly speak nastily of their parents, who are usually portrayed as aged stupid nags. This angers my wife, the mother of three thirty-somethings, almost. She always snarls something about being the victim of vicious, unfair stereotyping. She doesn't go into a frenzy, however.

Anyway, back on Ellen, the mother of Fisher's character didn't appear on camera, but her irritating, nagging voice sounded from within a locked closet. And, in the closing tiny-type credits, it said the mother's part was played by Connie Stevens.

According to my investigation, I was the only one in the nation to spot that credit and say, "In real life, Connie Stevens is Joely Fisher's mother."

Now I'm waiting for an episode where Joely sings "O My Papa" and guest stars, Debbie Reynolds and Elizabeth Taylor, tell her to shut the hell up.

As always, if you don't understand any of this, ask your grandparents.

Survey at G.M.S. reveals one-third of eighth graders have used inhalants

By Victor Edwards

Statistics describing the frequency of inhalant use in Crawford County were cited in a Jan. 12 Avalanche article. In some cases, the rate of abuse was twice the state average. A local survey showed 36 percent of all eighth graders in Crawford County had used inhalants on at least one occasion for the purpose of getting high. The national average is 16 percent.

"I believe that's true, one-third have tried to get high," is how Clyde Holzbauer describes his faith in those numbers.

He should know. It's his job and he conducted the local survey. Holzbauer is the Alcohol and Other Drug (AOD) counselor for the Crawford AuSable School District.

Holzbauer's explanation as to why the rate of use in Crawford County is so large, has three elements. Alcohol laws are more difficult for minors to circumvent in rural areas, and illicit drugs are more difficult to obtain farther away from major urban centers. Also, rural areas and inner city areas, tend to be less affluent or, in some cases, poverty stricken. Inhalants generally do not cost very much to abuse.

It doesn't cost much to go into your bathroom or garbage and find something to use.

Holzbauer said there are reported instances of children going into a hardware or department store, opening a can of solvent, placing some on their sleeve and walking out of the store, appearing to be only wiping a runny nose on their sleeve.

"What may appear to be simply a child without a handkerchief, may actually be a child sniffing a toxic chemical," Holzbauer said.

Because solvent abuse causes immediate, permanent and irreversible damage to the lungs, heart, liver, brain, and other organs, the danger is real, he said. Instant heart failure from abusing solvents can occur, as well as suffocation from fumes replacing the oxygen in the lungs, or depression of the central nervous system to the point that breathing stops.

He said it has happened often enough to earn its very own term, "sudden sniffing death."

"The problem is real," he said. "It is here in Crawford County now. There are children in the eighth grade in Crawford County who have come forward and admitted to chronic abuse due to emotional and medical problems stemming from that abuse."

So if the dangers are so serious, real and immediate, why do kids do it?

Holzbauer said one part of the problem is the mental threshold children must cross to abuse solvents, has not been very scary because they don't have the facts. Information is the problem. Until recently, information about the dangers of abusing common household substances was not readily available to them. Kids are under educated about the dangers.

The Crawford AuSable School District is fighting the problem. Kent Reynolds, superintendent, said the problem of inhalant abuse was discovered unexpectedly from a state survey conducted about four years ago. Once the survey results were provided to the school board, an internally generated, proactive stance was taken. Aggressive pursuit of funding resulted in hiring Holzbauer.

Holzbauer has been fighting the problem for the last two years. This year, every child in the middle school has been talked to in small, individualized groups about the dangers of inhalant use and abuse.

Although Holzbauer describes the problem as "totally out of hand," he said he believes the battle can be won.

"Inhalant abuse is actually pretty easy to spot, but parents and everyone, underestimate the damage that can be done."

He said the school administration has been very supportive, and their support was very important to the effectiveness of his efforts.

Holzbauer stressed that community help is needed, especially parental support. He said parents should set a good example. Also important, is for parents to be open enough to listen to their children. This does not necessarily mean agreeing with them or giving them a green light, but taking their concerns seriously.

"Staying aware of and involved with what is going on with your children is also necessary," Holzbauer said.

Although inhalant abuse is a big problem that appears to be increasing, he said a sense of balance when viewing the problem should be maintained. The survey revealed that use of inhalants, six to nine times, was reported by seven percent of those surveyed, and less than one percent of the students reported use of 10 to 19 times.

Of the students surveyed, seven percent represents approximately 35 to 40 students.

Holzbauer said, "If 30 kids were trying heroin, something would be done. There are more than 30 kids playing with inhalants."

North Flight adds new ambulance to fleet

THE CADILLAC OF AMBULANCES -- This Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) is the latest addition to the North Flight ambulance service. MICU enables North Flight to provide the latest technology to Crawford County and surrounding areas. Standing in front of the MICU are (L to R) Terry Shepherd RN, paramedics Paul Owens, Mike Janisse, Lee Smith and EMT John Wilcox.

"Out with the old and in with the new" is the old adage about the new year, and North Flight Inc. took the old adage to heart.

North Flight, Crawford County's ambulance service since 1991, traded in the last ambulance left over from when the county ran the ambulance service for a new Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU).

Craig Dodge, manager of North Flight's Grayling division, said the difference between the two ambulances is like comparing a Yugo to a Cadillac.

"We are really excited about the positive change we've been able to make," said Dodge. "North Flight has really brought the EMS service in the county a long way from what it used to be."

Grayling's North Flight is a division of North Flight in Traverse City. A new division of North Flight was just opened in Wexford County this year. North Flight started as a helicopter service in Traverse City in 1986.

Although the Grayling division doesn't have any helicopters, the name remains North Flight.

North Flight brings advanced life support to all of Crawford and surrounding counties. There are five ambulances at the Grayling division, with 17 full-time and 17 part-time employees.

Grayling's Most Wanted List released by American Cancer Society

Local businessmen and community leaders will be needing some help raising bail soon. The 3rd annual American Cancer Society's Most Wanted is back with subpoenas ready.

Subpoenas for the American Cancer Society's Most Wanted will be sent out on Jan. 19 and 20. People contacted will be ordered to appear before "Judge" Michael Branch to come to the Iron Gate Restaurant on Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 7:30.

Judge Branch will be sworn in by Judge Alton T. Davis. Judge Branch will then set the "bail" for each individual. The bail will be the amount of money the subpoenaed party will need to raise for the American Cancer Society.

People subpoenaed will be given two weeks to raise the bail money. Wanted posters, complete with mug shots, will hang in their place of business in order to allow friends and customers to make donations to help them raise their bail.

Members of the Grayling Rotary Club will dress up in "jailbird" outfits. Their mission is to harass and annoy the Most Wanted to the best of their abilities.

All bail monies must be collected by Thursday, Feb. 9. The money will be collected at the Grayling Holiday Inn from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres and cash bar available.

This is your chance to join your hosts, the Grayling Eagles, Auxiliary 3465 to meet the 18 young women vying for the Grayling Junior Miss Crown and kick off the 1995 Winter Wolf Challenge.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By Charles Tinsley, Cadillac Social Security Representative

Automatic recomputation

If you worked and received Social Security benefits last year, your earnings may increase the amount of Social Security benefits you receive. Your earnings could increase the amount of benefits other members of your family receive, too. Each year you work, your benefit amount is automatically recomputed to take into account your extra earnings. If your earnings are substantial, that could mean extra benefits, even if you're already collecting Social Security. If you are eligible for higher benefits based on your earnings, you'll receive your new benefit amount in the following year. For example, any extra earnings you have in 1994, could result in a higher benefit amount beginning in 1995. For more information about how earnings from work increases your Social Security benefits, call any Social Security office or 1-800-772-1213.

Cards for summer jobs

If you're a student and you're planning to look for a summer job this year, here's some advice from the Social Security Administration. Make sure you have your Social Security card with you when you apply for a job. You'll need to show your employer your Social Security card so he or she will have your correct Social Security number to credit your earnings. If you've lost or misplaced your card, you can get a replacement from Social Security.

Working women

Here's some advice for working women from Social Security. While you can receive Social Security benefits based on your husband's Social Security record, it may be more advantageous to build up your own retirement benefits. That's because a wife's benefit is usually one half of what her husband receives. But if you work yourself, you are entitled to benefits on your own record if the amount is larger. For more details, contact any Social Security office.

The Bible Speaks

From the Calvary Baptist Church

Anniversary

Last year we exposed the cultural elite striving to dominate our lives. We quoted these Humanists using ridicule and defamation of character as tools to discredit us and intimidate us into silence. Their "name calling" includes, "Bible-thumpers," "absolutists," "ignorant," "extremists," "bigots," "prejudiced," "radicals," "regressives," "reactionaries," "cynical," "hateful," "hate mongering," "scurrilous," "intolerant," "invidious," "homophobic," "sexists," "unjust," "uncaring," and "politically incorrect."

We quoted Rush Limbaugh describing our cultural war a year ago in, See, I Told You So: "On one side, you have people who believe in living by a set of divinely inspired moral absolutes... On the other side, you have people who insist that morality is simply a personal decision." (Page 81). Concerning the importance of moral standards, he said, "Because if there are no ultimate standards of behavior that descend from God, and if morality is merely an individual choice, then life itself has lost its greater meaning." (Page 83) Rush reminded us that our nation was founded by, "... a people completely steeped in the lessons of the Old and New Testaments." (Page 70) He called these Pilgrims, "orthodox, Bible-believing Christians." (Page 73) Rush reminded us how the Ten Commandments emblazoned on the wall of the U.S. Supreme Court building still bear public evidence of our historical roots and respect for divine standards. (Page 85)

We repeat the words of James Madison, the father of our constitution, "We have staked the whole future of American civilization, not upon the power of government, far from it. We have staked the future of all of our political institutions upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves, to control ourselves, to sustain ourselves according to the Ten Commandments of God." The father of our country, George Washington, warned us, "It is impossible to rightly govern the world without God and the Bible." As Andrew Jackson once said, "The Bible is the rock on which our republic stands."

For nearly six months we have written articles about Bible-based character traits including our heroes, honesty, faith, virtues, obedience, duty, humility, responsibility, patience, courage, friendship, justice, compassion, repentance, forgiveness, politeness, gratitude, thanksgiving, joy, meekness, peace, love, law and liberty. As we trust in absolutes like God, the Bible, and prayer, then God can reproduce these above values in our lives. We should teach them to our children as God commanded. (DEUT. 6:5-9).

God holds Bible-believing Christians responsible for America's future. (2 CH. 7:14) We must repent of our own sins before expecting a national revival from God.

Special Moments In Time

How breathtaking! Mother Nature is dripping in dazzling diamonds! The sun is magically transforming the treacherous, grey landscape into a multifaceted display of fiery color... a unique exhibit of ice sculpture in every direction. Yet, one must look quickly, for within the hour the ice will melt from branches and wires and fences, and the display will disappear. We must carefully capture this special moment in time.

We live and work in a frantic society. Isn't this even more reason to pause and behold the wonders of God's handiwork? Do we not gain strength from His power and majesty? Indeed, Psalm 96:6 reads, "Strength and beauty are in His sanctuary."

May we worship the Creator each day as we behold His works and worship God each Sabbath as we gather in our local church or synagogue. Each moment with God is a special moment in time.

Is your pooch too pudgy?

Fat dogs risk heart disease, skeletal disorders, and other ills. "Every extra pound on a 24-pound beagle is equivalent to 5.5 pounds on a 130-pound woman," said Rick Shields, Ph.D., director of pet nutrition at Quaker Oats. How to tell if your dog's among the 60 percent who are porky? Look at his back from above — you should see an hour-glass waistline. And when you run your fingers down the rib cage, you should easily feel each rib. If not, cut out the table scraps.

PROBATE JUDGE SPEAKS TO LAW STUDENTS--Probate Judge John Hunter was a guest speaker on Tuesday, Dec. 13, for the senior business law class at the Grayling High School. Since the class had been studying a unit on the federal and state court systems, Judge Hunter gave a more extensive background to the business law students on the topic. Also, he explained some of the factors that a probate judge uses to make his decisions. At the end of his presentation, he held a question/answer session. Pictured (left to right) are Ty Alma, Analisa Gildner, Dan Weaver, Raylene Benstead, and Judge Hunter.

A 3-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati has ruled unanimously that the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) acted properly in licensing the use of ventilated, dry storage casks for spent nuclear fuel at all reactor sites in the United States, including Consumers Power Company's Palisades nuclear plant located near South Haven. In its decision issued January 11, the court denied petitions filed by the Lake Michigan Federation, Don't Waste Michigan and the attorney General of Michigan, challenging the NRC's process for licensing the casks. Eight casks are currently in use at the plant.

The court found that, contrary to claims presented to the court, the NRC provided the public with "an extensive opportunity" to comment on the suitability of the casks to safely store spent nuclear fuel. "In this case, what petitioners are really seeking is to have this court use its power of judicial review of NRC actions to micromanage NRC decisionmaking and, in particular, dictate to the agency the procedure which it must use in approving designs for containers for the dry storage of spent nuclear fuel."

The court also noted that the NRC's certificate of compliance for the casks contains a lengthy list of conditions that virtually eliminate the need for certain site-specific considerations sought by the Federation and Don't Waste Michigan, in petitions to the court.

"This decision from the federal bench is a clear sign that the dry storage casks, including those employed at Palisades, were licensed appropriately by the NRC, with adequate input from the public," said Michael G. Morris, president and chief executive officer of Consumers Power. "While these casks are being used only as a temporary means to store spent fuel, they meet strict federal standards for safe on-site storage. Palisades has been a responsible custodian of spent fuel at Palisades for over two decades. We are committed to continuing this unblemished record until custody of the spent fuel can be turned over to the federal government."

"Dry cask storage is only a temporary solution to a long-term problem which the Department of Energy is moving too slowly to resolve," said Morris.

Watch for Goat Star in January

Capella, the Goat Star, bounds to the top of the sky on early January evenings and can be seen nearly directly overhead, according to University of Michigan astronomer Richard Teske.

Capella is the sixth brightest star in the Michigan sky, Teske said. It has the distinction of being one that rises and sets for observers in southern Michigan, but not for those living in the north. When viewed from northern Michigan, Capella is in the sky 24 hours each day, all year long. Stars that are close to the north pole of the sky circle perpetually around the pole once every 24 hours, never sinking below the skyline.

"Michigan skywatchers already know that the Big Dipper and the W-shaped constellation Cassiopeia never rise or set," Teske said. "When observed from our state, they're somewhere above the horizon all the time, although at times the dipper scrapes pretty low in the north. Such constellations are said to be 'circumpolar.'"

Capella is the main star in the constellation Auriga, the Charioteer — one of the most ancient of the familiar star figures. It was well known to the Babylonians thousands of years ago, but the origins of tales told about it have been lost. The star pattern is supposed to depict a chariot driver who carries a she-goat on his left arm, which is brilliant Capella. According to one legend, the she-goat was rewarded with a place in the heavens for having nursed the infant Jupiter, King of the Gods.

The yellowish-colored Goat Star is actually two stars. Both are roughly 10 times larger than our sun, and they orbit smoothly around one another every 104 days. Although they are 70 million miles apart, we view them from a distance of 45 light-years, making them seem so close together, they appear as one star to us on Earth.

Error on MI-1040EZ tax form

The State Revenue Commissioner has issued a notice that explains an error on the Michigan Income Tax Form MI-1040EZ. This single-sheet form can be used by single income tax filers who claim no deductions against their income. The error occurs on Line 6 of the form. The line asks the taxpayer to record their "adjusted gross income" (AGI) from their federal income tax form. This part of the instruction is correct. However, the line continues "from Federal-1040EZ line 4." Reference to "line 4" is incorrect. The correct reference is "line 3."

All instruction materials that accompany the MI-1040EZ Form use the correct reference. If the taxpayer uses their federal AGI on the Michigan form, they will be correct. If the taxpayer uses line 4 from the federal return, they will be inserting the wrong information necessary to complete the Michigan tax form.

The bureau has indicated that corrections to affected MI-1040EZ income tax returns will be made at the time the returns are processed, based on W-2 information accompanying the return. Taxpayers will be notified if their return is recalculated based on a corrected AGI.

Tax preparers and tax advisors are being notified of this correction and all forms distributed from the Bureau of Revenue through its office and through the toll-free "FORMS-2-ME" telephone line will note the correction on the front of the form.

Tax breaks for baby

Question: My wife and I are expecting our first baby soon. Will I receive the full exemption amount for the child or will I need to prorate the amount for the number of days in the year after the child is born?

Answer: The baby will count as a full exemption even if he or she is born on Dec. 31. As for other tax consequences, you may want to adjust your Form W-4 to reflect the extra exemption. Assuming you're in the 28-percent tax bracket, that will result in about $57 more per month in take-home pay. Next, keep track of your medical expenses for the prenatal care, delivery, and post-delivery care for your wife and child. Medical expenses are deductible to the extent the unreimbursed amount exceeds 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. Finally, obtain a Social Security number for the child. By the time he or she is one year old, you'll need the number in order to claim the child as a dependent. In fact, because of new IRS rules, you'll need the number right away if you want to file your 1994 tax return electronically.

Home improvements

Question: I recently added a deck to my home at a cost of about $4,000. Can I deduct any portion of my expense?

Answer: You can't deduct your expense, but that doesn't mean you have no tax benefit. The full amount you spent for your deck is added to the tax basis of your home. When you sell your home, the cost of the deck will reduce any gain that may otherwise be subject to income tax. Be sure to keep all records and receipts related to the cost of the deck and other home improvements.

Three GHS musicians named to play in 50th anniversary band at U of M

Betsy Dean

The Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association has named three Grayling High School Students to the Midwestern 50th Anniversary Honors Band. The band, founded by Dr. Revelli of the University of Michigan in 1945, meets only once every 50 years.

The Grayling students, senior Betsy Dean (trumpet), junior Nick Szajner (alto saxophone), and junior Trisha Ormsbee (bassoon) auditioned for the band by audio cassette in competition with other band students throughout Michigan.

"The Midwestern 50th Anniversary Honors Band will perform one concert, at the University of Michigan's Hill Auditorium on Saturday, Jan. 21, at 7 p.m. After that the band will disband until its next meeting in 2045.

Prior to the concert, members of the band traveled across Michigan for intensive weekend rehearsals on Jan. 14, Jan. 19 and 20.

It's been awhile and I apologize, time just keeps flying and I can't seem to catch up. This week is our MIC distribution for seniors. It will be Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the senior center on Lawndale.

While we are on the subject of MIC, I want to take a few moments to again thank Captain Hanson and the National Guard, who take time out of their busy schedules to help us out with this project every month. This started out as a pilot program, but response was so great, it has and will continue on. Without the use of their truck and help, though, we would not be able to continue on.

Also, we want to thank all of the volunteers who help each and every month on this project. This has become quite the undertaking, we are supplying our community (with everyone's help) approximately 200 boxes of food each month.

For any of you that are interested, we have many such areas of need in our community where we could use volunteers. Anyone age 55 years or older qualifies for our program. We help to defray the cost of volunteering by reimbursing your mileage and providing liability insurance for you. We can help anyone find worthwhile things to help with from Meals on Wheels deliveries, to making hats, scarves, and mittens for less fortunate children in our community. If you are interested, call 348-4341 or stop in at the senior center and see us.

We think that you'll find almost anything through the classifieds. Whether it is employment, selling the junk in the basement, buying or just wishing someone happy birthday, the best possible choice for advertising is in the Crawford County Avalanche Classifieds. For more information call 348-6811.

Grayling Milltown Follies prepares for third production

For the third time in as many years, senior citizens from Grayling, and the surrounding counties of Crawford, Oscoda, Roscommon, and Otsego are abandoning their television sets and rocking chairs for the next five months. Instead of rocking, they're singing; instead of walking, they're dancing; instead of playing cards, they're sewing, all in preparation for the third edition of the Grayling Milltown Follies.

This year's show will be staged on June 8, 9, and 10, at the Joseph Stripe Auditorium. If all goes well, as it has in the past, the 'Follies' will be a full two hours, jam-packed with music, singing, dancing and plenty of fun. And the entire company is made up of people who have attained a minimum age of 50, and many of the cast members refer to those of less than 60 years as 'the youngsters.'

Rehearsals will begin in earnest on Feb. 9, at the Grayling senior center. Most early rehearsals consist of singing the songs that will be included in the show and heated discussions over who is going to do what, and what music is going to be included in this year's show.

Get Your AVALANCHE Subscription Today

The big item on the Follies agenda right now is the job of getting everyone signed up. Everyone who helps with the show in any way must be a member of the Grayling Milltown Follies Company. Membership in the company is attained by filling out a membership form and paying the $10 dues fee. The dues fee is used to offset the personal costumes, copies of music and personal props used in the production. Many of these items are kept by the members after the production is over. In the end, everyone gets merchandise back that more than equals the $10 membership fee.

If you are at least 50 years old, like to sing or dance or just do something different, why don't you consider the possibility of becoming a member of the 1995 Grayling Milltown Follies. It's really great fun, and you meet a great group of seniors, just like yourself. Membership forms are available from any member of the Follies' board of directors or recruitment committee. To receive a membership form, or to get more information, call the Follies director at 1-800-624-0221.

HEALTHLINE

Linda DeMarchis, M.A., Health Educator

This column is presented as a public service to the community by District Health Department No. 1, which serves Wexford, Missaukee, Kalkaska, and Crawford counties. If you have a question you would like answered, please send it to Health Educator, District Health Department No. 1, 401 Lake St., Cadillac, MI, 49601.

Question: Last year my child came home from school with head lice. Could you give me some information about this problem?

Answer: Now that school is in full swing, we would like to call your attention to an annual problem, head lice. To insure that your young students will bring only school supplies to the classroom, and not these tiny little hitchhikers, we suggest you conduct a head lice inspection.

These small wingless parasites live on the scalp and hair and move from one person to another through exchange of personal belongings, such as combs and hats, etc., and close personal contact. In addition, jackets and hats, which may hang side by side, also give these insects a perfect opportunity to spread.

When inspecting for head lice, look for the grayish white eggs of the female louse, called a nit, firmly glued to the base of the hair shaft. Pay particular attention to the back of the head and behind the ears. Use a magnifying glass and flashlight if necessary. Also notice if your children have been scratching their heads frequently, since head lice may cause intense itching.

The adult lice, if few in number, may be difficult to see and combing the child's hair over a white towel or white paper may reveal the small tan-colored insects.

If you notice head lice, don't be embarrassed. These creatures can affect anyone and rarely distinguish between clean or unwashed hair. They are not a sign of poor grooming habits and may even find washed hair easier to grasp onto than oily, unwashed hair.

If one family member has head lice, inspect the whole family, because lice may migrate from one family member to another.

To prevent and eliminate head lice, try these helpful hints:

• Instruct children to put hats and scarves inside jacket sleeves, and keep a space between their coats and other children's outerwear.

• Advise them not to share articles of clothing, combs, brushes, earphones, and athletic helmets, pillows, etc.

• Inspect heads periodically. If head lice are discovered, several good shampoos are available, either with or without a doctor's prescription. After shampooing, comb out any visible nits with a special comb. A solution of half vinegar, half water, may help loosen nits when allowed to remain in the hair for several minutes.

• Remove child's bedding and wash in hot water, or seal in a plastic garbage bag for several weeks until lice and nits are dead.

• A spray is available to use on carpeting, beds, chairs, etc., as a final precaution and can be obtained at your local pharmacy.

If you have any questions about head lice, call District Health Department No. 1, or stop by the health department office and pick up an information pamphlet on the subject.

BITS OF TALK

By Fay Bovee

Who says that one cannot have fresh picked fruit for breakfast in Grayling? This Sunday morning we sat down to a fresh grapefruit, picked only minutes before. Thanks to Carol and Lary Gust, who gave Bob the three trees, only a few inches to a foot high, many years ago. The lemon tree died somewhere along the way, but did produce a couple of lemons before its demise. After finally finding the right citrus fertilizer, obviously not available in this area, our trees this year have managed to produce two grapefruit and two oranges, both very delicious. The trees should start blossoming again in February or March and what a delicious smell comes wafting from the greenhouse. Thank you, Lary and Carol!

Mrs. Marjorie Walker, former Grayling resident, now living in Kentucky, keeps in contact with the Ficks and would enjoy hearing from some more Grayling people whom she knows. Her address is Hawes Nursing Home, Fulton, KY 42041 and the telephone number is 502-472-3284.

She is recuperating from a stroke, but hopes to be able to leave the home by April.

Home for the holidays at the home of Jack and Joan Rasmussen were their son and wife, Jason and Wendy, and daughter Melissa of Austin, TX; Joel Rasmussen and friend, Eileen Jackiewicz and her children, Jessica and Josh, all of Grand Rapids; Joel's daughters, Jennie and Joni of Bowling Green, OH; John Rasmussen III and Josh and Jessie of Grand Rapids; John and Peggy Rasmussen and son Drew, and grandmother, Mrs. Shirley Johnson, all of Grayling. They all met at the sister's home, Joy and Keith Bobenmoyer for their annual big Christmas dinner.

Melissa Ann Rasmussen, daughter of Jason and Wendy Rasmussen, of Austin, TX, was baptized at St. Mary's Church, Grayling, on Dec. 30, 1994, by Father Mike Connor. Godparents were Keith and Joy Bobenmoyer. Also attending were grandparents, Joan and Jack Rasmussen, grandmother, Cathy Pearsall of Lovells, great-grandmother, Helen Harwood and cousin, Devon Bobenmoyer.

Master Sgt. Tom Feldhauser, son of Norman and Helen Feldhauser, is to report on Tuesday, Jan. 12, in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, for a 90-day tour of the country.

Ernest and Elsie Larson had as their guests Christmas Eve, their sons, the Ron Larsons and the Jerry Larsons, other family members, the Ron Rackozys, the Brian Dandys and Angie Larson and friend, Michael Arment of Grand Ledge. On Christmas Day they all had dinner at Jerry and Jane Larson's home, including the Bill Hart family.

On New Year's Eve, the Larson family again gathered at the Ernie Larson home and included the Vern Essenberg of Grandville, and their daughter, Shelly and Nick Larabel of Plymouth.

The Larsons received word on New Year's Day that Vern and Beth Essenberg from Tacoma, WA, were in flight to Moscow, to pick up their newly adopted daughter of 14 months. Later, he called from Moscow upon their arrival to report that all was well and they had a beautiful little girl. They were staying with a host family and going to spend 13 days on a tour of the country.

Guests of Mrs. Marti Nowak between Christmas and New Year's were her daughter, Julie Mullet of Norcross, GA; Julie's son and family.

Mike and Kathy and son, Andrew, Bill and Joan Nowak of Holland; Patrick Nowak of Ann Arbor; and Marti's sister-in-law, Mrs. Esther Killoran of Grand Haven.

Congratulations are in order for David and Marguerite Cook of Grayling, who will celebrate their 61st wedding anniversary on Jan. 20. That is quite an accomplishment and we wish them many more years of marriage!

Thank you to all of my callers. Keep them coming so that we can expand this column; I'd like to hear from some of the new people in the area. We'd like to hear your news too. There are many differences between small towns and the city, and one of the things that brings people here is the closeness of people. It may seem sometimes that everyone knows your business, but let a tragedy happen and people are there to help, much different than in a place where everyone ignores everyone else.

Let's hear some of the news about the accomplishments of your college students or any of your family. We're tired of hearing all of the bad news that the media covers.

M.S.U. EXTENSION

By Elizabeth McMillin, Family Nutrition Education Program Coordinator, Crawford County MSU Extension

Vinegar's virtues

Vinegar has been promoted as a cure-all for everything from cancer and arthritis to high blood pressure. Over the years, it has been touted as a nutritional powerhouse, and even credited with the ability to burn fat. It's all part of the lore.

But even the Vinegar Institute, whose job it is to promote and sell vinegar, refuses to claim curative or nutritional properties for vinegar.

Vinegar is mostly water, with about two calories per tablespoonful, no fiber and insignificant traces of a few minerals. Its active ingredient is acetic acid (about four to six percent in most bottled vinegars). Nutritious or not, it is one of the most ancient and useful foods in the world.

The word "vinegar" is French, combining "vin" (wine) and "aigre" (sour). Vinegar is highly acidic and thus an excellent preservative. It prevents the growth of bacteria that causes botulism, and it is used to pickle a wide variety of foods. Though it contains no alcohol, it is a processed, fermented product that can be made from apples, grains, potatoes, molasses, alcohol or wine.

Plain white vinegar is among the cheapest products on the grocery shelf, but dark balsamic vinegars (aged in wood) can cost as much as the best wines.

"Vinegar has almost endless culinary uses and is an indispensable ingredient of salad dressings," said

Elizabeth J. McMillin, MSU Extension family nutrition education program coordinator. "It's flavorful and can be enhanced with herbs, spices or other seasonings."

Many families have passed down vinegar remedies that they swear "cure" a variety of conditions. For example, like camphor, vinegar has been used to relieve nasal congestion when heated and inhaled. A cup of vinegar in a footbath of hot soapy water is said to soften corns and calluses. It has been mixed with honey to make it palatable and has been promoted as an arthritis remedy. There's no scientific evidence that vinegar can help with any of these problems, but it is inexpensive and harmless.

The greatest vinegar secret is that it's a terrific household cleaner. A teaspoon in water helps clean a coffee maker. It will take some stains out of clothing and dissolve rust from metals. Mix equal amounts of vinegar and water in a spray bottle and use it for stove tops, kitchen counters, chrome faucets, glass and other household surfaces. It dissolves soap film and detergents, too. Use the cheap kind for cleaning and save the expensive kind for cooking.

For a copy of a handy booklet, Virtues of Vinegar write to the Vinegar Institute, P.O. Box 720215, Atlanta, GA 30358. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Viking hoopsters lose to rival Gaylord, beat Lincoln-Alcona

By Terry Wright
News Editor

The Tigers of Lincoln-Alcona came to town on Friday the 13th, and it was their unlucky day as the Vikings boys' basketball squad turned them away by a 78-59 score.

"Our kids played well," said Viking Coach Rich Moffit. "Defensively, we played very well, especially in the third quarter. Offensively we moved the ball well and created high percentage shots."

Leading the Grayling scorers were senior Ben Croze, 25 points; senior Shane Hinkle, 22; junior Joe Godlewski, 11; senior Scott Longendyke, nine; junior Chris Kucharek, four; junior Corey Northrop, three; junior Scott Hartman, three; and senior Chris Jones, one point.

Despite the Friday win, earlier in the week old habits were hard to break. After dealing three straight losses to the Gaylord Blue Devils last season, the Vikings slipped back into the old habit of getting thumped by their arch rivals, this time in their first meeting this season. Gaylord handed the Vikings a 69-53 defeat on Tuesday, Jan. 10.

"Our stats told the story of this game," Moffit said. "We hit only 16 of 56 baskets from the floor. We had 15 turnovers and, as a team, we only totaled 21 rebounds."

Grayling held a slim 4-point lead after the first period, but allowed the Blue Devils to score 24 points in the second, while the Vikings could only find six points.

Hinkle and Croze, both averaging almost 20 points per game going in, led the Viking scoring attack with 11 points each. Longendyke hit nine points, Godlewski added seven and Jones had five points. Kucharek had four points, while senior Charlie Kucharek and Hartman each had two points.

"Hopefully, we will learn from our mistakes and work hard to improve," Moffit said.

The Grayling Viking junior varsity lost to the Blue Devils by a 70-35 score.

David Sabin and Sam Modica led the junior Vikings with 8-points each, followed by Brad Larm with six, Mike Knight and Ben Haskel with four apiece, and Mike Marellich, Aaron Perrin and Seth Madsen each adding two points.

The Vikings traveled to Petoskey on Tuesday, Jan. 17, for a rematch with the Petoskey Northmen.

Nutters in action

A strong team effort has helped the Viking volleyball team continue to improve as their record moves to 3-2.

Grayling defeated Houghton Lake on Wednesday, Jan. 4. Coach Rebecca Brown said it was a strong team effort with everyone contributing.

On Saturday, Jan. 7, the team traveled to Petoskey for an invitational.

Coach Brown described the Petoskey Invitational as a different experience for the team. All games started with a score of 4-4. This enabled the teams to play without the results affecting their records. The highlight of the day for the Vikings was their defeat over Gaylord.

Net play by Carol Lanczy, 12, and Amy Neal, 11, was strong according to Brown.

On Saturday, Jan. 14, the team went to the Gaylord Invitational.

"As a team we didn't show our capabilities," said Coach Brown. "Individually we had some good performances, but we didn't maintain them."

Lanczy led the team with 40 passes, 21 serves and 19 spikes. Neal also did well with 34 passes, 10 serves and 28 spikes.

Jessica Waite, 10, contributed with 29 passes, 11 serves and seven spikes.

Monica Lawrence, 11, contributed with 28 passes, 12 serves and eight spikes. Jessica St. Germain, 10, has an impressive 49 sets and led in serving with fourteen.

The volleyball team faced off against Roscommon for the second time this season on Monday, Jan. 16, with Roscommon winning the tie breaking game 15-11.

Neal spiked 28 times, with 10 serves and 17 passes. Lanczy delivered 21 serves, nine blocks and 19 spikes. Lawrence had 19 passes, and seven spikes. St. Germain delivered 14 serves, 22 sets, and nine passes.

"The loss against Roscommon was disappointing," said Coach Brown. "We wanted to beat them after last time. We look forward to the challenge when we meet them again later in the season."

Roscommon showed strong serving," said Brown. "We set it up more and hit it harder than we did on Saturday (at the Gaylord Invitational)."

'The Bird' pitches in for Special Olympics

The distant buzz will turn into a throaty roar as 60 Wertz Warriors on their snowmobiles join the 1995 Michigan Special Olympics State Winter Games for opening ceremonies. The games will take place at Sugar Loaf Mountain Resort in Cedar from Feb. 7-10.

Accompanied by honorary chairman Mark "the Bird" Fidrych, the Warriors will be making their 14th annual fundraising ride from Mt. Clemens to Mackinaw City. They depart from Mt. Clemens on Feb. 5, and complete their 925-mile trek in Mackinaw City on Feb. 12. On Wednesday, Feb. 8, the warriors will arrive at the winter games to once again give snowmobile rides to the athletes and participate in the opening ceremonies parade.

Over the past 13 years, the Wertz Warriors have raised over $2.6 million for the Michigan Special Olympics Winter Games. The first fundraising ride took place in 1982, and was led by former Tiger Vic Wertz, who died a year later. The Wertz Warriors have continued the annual tradition in Vic Wertz's name.

This will be the third year that Fidrych rides with the Wertz Warriors on the annual fundraiser. The Warriors sponsor fundraisers all year round, as well as during their 7-day ride, with stops at Moose lodges, VFW halls, church halls, motels and restaurants. During their ride, they will be making overnight stops in Oscoda, Houghton Lake, Grayling, Traverse City, Gaylord and Alpena. Their final stop will be in Mackinaw City where a check will be presented to Michigan Special Olympics.

The AuSable River bridge at the Big Mill on Cedar Street fell through Tuesday, when a wagon loaded with ashes belonging to the ashery works and driven by Fred Brown and Ed Hollingsworth were in the middle of it, precipitating all into the river. Just as the load reached the middle of the bridge, it gave way and crashed to the river. Mr. Brown said he looked back and could see the wagon and horses coming down on top of him and how he managed to escape injury, he is unable to tell. The water is deep at this place and the men and horses were at once submerged and it was with difficulty that one of the horses was saved from drowning. Plans from the State Department are in the office of our supervisor, for a new bridge to be built this summer. It will cost the department approximately $10,000.

GHS Wrestling is back in action after vacation

The Grayling High School wrestling team is back in action after the winter vacation. Although there wasn't any school or competitions during the vacation, wrestlers still had practice.

On Thursday, Jan. 5, the wrestling team travelled to Petoskey for a dual meet against St. Ignace and Petoskey. A number of Grayling wrestlers were unable to be there, which ultimately hurt the Viking's overall performance.

The Vikings defeated St. Ignace 53-24, but were beaten by Petoskey 69-5.

Andy Langowski (heavyweight) won two matches at Petoskey. Winning one match each were Dana Beckwith (100), Danielle Dushane (106), Eddie Davis (126), and Jason Hall (134).

Scoring points for the team were Lowell Bindschadel, Will Miller, Jason Secord, and Josh Taylor.

The Vikings placed fourth out of 12 teams at the Gladwin Invitational on Saturday, Jan. 7. Head Coach Don Ferguson said it was a highly competitive tournament.

Gladwin finished in first place with 187 points and St. Louis was second with 157 points. Gaylord had a close finish over Grayling for third with 137 1/2 points. Grayling finished fourth with 137 points.

"It was a good team effort," said Ferguson. "Everybody helped out in scoring."

Dale Kniss (215) took first place in his weight class. Kniss' overall record is 15-1. Tom Oberg (119) took a second place for Grayling, moving his record to 9-1. Andy Langowski, Grayling's heavyweight, also brought home a second place, making his record 15-1.

Giving Grayling third place finishes were Dana Beckwith (100), record 14-4; Jason Hall (134), record 13-6; Josh Taylor (142), record 8-8; and Will Miller (160), record 14-5. Jason Secord (185) placed fourth with a record of 4-3.

Others scoring points for the team were Danielle Dushane (106), Eddie Davis (126), and Lowell Bindschadel (151).

Coach Ferguson said, "It was a good tournament with excellent competition. The kids wrestled well."

The wrestling team will be in Charlevoix on Thursday, Jan. 19, where they will compete with Onaway and Charlevoix. On Saturday, Jan. 21, the team will compete in the Ithaca Invitational.

FREDERIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Angels

by Beth Evans

Once upon a time in a far, far away place in the sky. There was an angel, her name was Elizabeth. Elizabeth would spend hours looking down out of her sky house window, she wondered why she died. All she could see was a school. She would sit there and cry for hours.

But one day a long time after that, she got wings, and came down. She watched the children play, as she did when she was alive.

A BIG JOB -- was accomplished by (L to R) Dustin Beaman, Jared Welch, Mark CdeBaca and Cory Klee of Frederic Elementary. The boys loaded 895 items of food that was collected by the Student Council for the Crawford County Community Christian Help Center located in Grayling. "The students did a great job in only two weeks and beat last year's total," said Mrs. Hughes, teacher advisor.

HONORS LIST

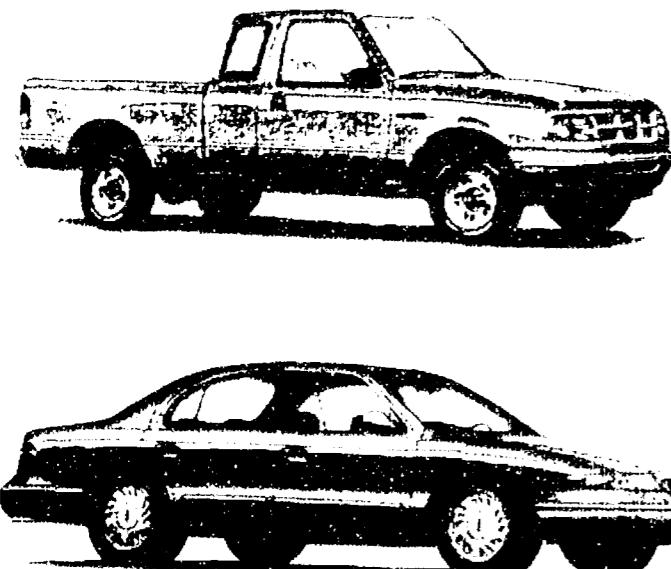

A total of 1,851 students were included on the dean's list for the fall semester of the 1994-95 academic year at Western Michigan University. Angela Thompson was among the students who attained a minimum grade-point average of 3.8 while taking at least 14 graded credit hours. Thompson is the daughter of Randy and Lynn D. Thompson of Grayling. Casey is a sophomore planning a major in English/writing, and is a 1993 graduate of Grayling High School. He is the son of Gerald and Ginger Casey of Grayling.

GRAYLING MIDDLE SCHOOL

Jill Ryther &
Monica Kustra

In Mrs. Alexander's and Mrs. Hamlin's seventh grade reading classes, we tried an experiment that not only included us, the students, but it also involved the help of the people we chose as, "The Person Who Made A Difference In Our Lives." Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Hamlin gave everyone three blue ribbons that said, "I Make A Difference." One for ourselves along with a reason for why we made the most difference. I think that every student felt appreciated.

"I thought this was a good idea. It made me feel special as well as the person I gave my ribbon to!" says Kim Kosloski, seventh grader.

The other two ribbons were to pass out. One, we gave to someone who made a difference in our lives. The other was for that person to pass on. The person with the last ribbon was the person who was told to mail a written letter back to us, showing where each set of three ribbons had ended up. Overall, there were almost three hundred ribbons given out. We received responses back from special people in Alaska, Virginia, Florida, Texas, and all over Michigan who were reached by this experiment! This experiment was a great success! It was a great opportunity to let someone know what difference they had made in your life.

Thanks, Mr. Alexander and Mrs. Hamlin. This made some people feel really important. Thanks, too, to Mr. Branch for helping out with this experiment!

Wal-Mart Foundation announces area scholarship program

Officials of the Gaylord Wal-Mart store have announced a $1,000 Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship will be presented this spring to an area high school student. The Wal-Mart scholarship is payable over a 1-year period and awarded to a college or a university bound student. Scholarship criteria will be based on the individual student's academic achievements, extra-curricular and work activities, as well as financial need.

Store Manager Carol Taylor said, "We are very proud to offer this annual scholarship to a deserving area student on behalf of our store and the company. This is one of the many efforts by Wal-Mart Store, Inc. to support education and enhance the opportunities of our area youth as well as contribute to the quality of life in the communities we serve."

Kids pick PCs over TVs

Computers might do even more than what they are programmed to do, at least according to a recent study.

The study found that more than one-third of parents with children ages 6 to 17 say kids are watching less TV thanks to having a home computer.

Ninety-one percent of parents said that using the computer enhanced their child's reading skills.

Question: Why only after five years of declining donations are you addressing the problem?

Answer: Every blood services region has addressed declining donations in some way, with varying success. This is the first national program to increase donor recruitment and address donor convenience factors. The decline in donations had been tolerable up until today because:

*The need for blood had reached a plateau.

*The Red Cross has made better use of the donors available; the central inventory Hub reduces shortages and improves distribution.

Question: Is the demand for blood increasing at the same time the number is shrinking?

Answer: Yes. Projections are that the demand for red blood cells will increase slightly (one to two percent) over the next few years. The driving force has to do with our aging of the population.
